I am a student in English One. My classroom is on the second floor in Room 204. There are ten students in my class. There are four men and six women. We are from different countries. There are five students from Mexico. There are two students from Vietnam. There is one student from El Salvador, one from India, and one from the Philippines.

Our room is small. There is a big table in the front for the teacher. There are twelve desks for the students. There is a board, and there are two maps on the wall: one of the United States and one of the world.

Our teacher is Mr. Wilson. We like our teacher, and we like our class.

What's in your Classroom?

Not all classrooms are the same. In your English classroom, there are desks and computers. There are books and dictionaries on the bookshelf, and students have pens and pencils to write in their notebooks and on pieces of paper.

Your English classroom is different from a classroom where students learn to cook. There are no desks. There are no chairs, and there are no computers. In your English classroom, teachers sometimes don't allow food or drink, but in cooking school, eating food is part of the class!

Not everything is different. There is a teacher in both classrooms, and there are students who are learning something new.

A: Emily is five. She has long hair. And Kim is six. She has short hair.

B: Now, that's your mom and dad. Right? In the middle?

A: Yes. That's mom. It's her birthday. She's 55 years old. And that's dad, next to her.

B: Oh, your dad has a moustache?

A: Yes. He has a moustache. At one time, he had curly hair, but now he's bald.

B: Who are they?

A: These are my sisters. This is my sister, Joanne. She's 21. And next to her, that's my sister, Mary. She's 23.

B: Joanne and Mary look a lot alike.

A: I know. They're tall and they both have dark, curly hair, but Mary is very slim.

B: Are your sisters married?

A: No, I'm the only one who is married.

B: And who's this?

A: That's my brother, Andy.

B: Oh, you have a brother?

A: Yes, I have a brother. He's 18.

B: He looks like your dad.

A: Yes, he does.

B: That's a great picture.

Three Families

Narrator: The Davis Family

A: My wife and I have two daughters. Our older daughter is 17 and our younger daughter is 15. Our daughters are tall and slim. They both have long, brown hair. One daughter looks like me. One daughter looks like my wife. The girls are both students in high school.

Narrator: The Soto Family

B: My husband, Michael, is 37 years old. He's tall and a little heavy. We have three children: two girls and a boy. Our daughters are seven and five. Our son is four years old. My parents live in the same city. The children see their grandmother and grandfather every week.

Narrator: The Taylor Family

C: My husband and I are divorced, so I am a single mother. I have a son. His name is Ethan, and he is 12 years old. He has short, brown hair. He lives with me and he sees his father every Saturday. My parents live with us. They are 65 years old and retired.
