Mom: Hi, Kathy. Doing your homework?

Kathy: Yes, I have a lot to do.

Mom: How's your room?

Kathy: How's my room?

Mom: Yes, is it clean? Is it neat?

Kathy: Yes, Mom. My room is perfect.

Mom: Are your clothes on the floor?

Kathy: Are my clothes on the floor? Mom, my clothes are in the closet.

Mom: And your shoes?

Kathy: They're in the closet, too.

Mom: And your desk?

Kathy: My desk is perfect.

Mom: Are your books and papers on the floor?

Kathy: Mom, my books and papers are on the desk.

Mom: And the pizza box from last night? Is that in your room?

Kathy: Mom! Well, maybe.

Mom: I hope it isn't. Grandma is coming today. And you know Grandma.

Kathy: Oh, no! Grandma is coming? When?

Mom: In about ten minutes.

Life on the Road

My wife and I don't live in a house. We don't live in an apartment. We live in a recreational vehicle, an RV.

We live in one long room. It is 26 feet long. In the front, we have two comfortable chairs. There is a small kitchen with a sink, a refrigerator, and a stove. There is a big window in the kitchen area. On the other side, there is a sofa and a large table. We eat and use our laptops on the table. The TV is on the wall next to the sofa. Our bedroom is behind the kitchen. There is a big closet for our clothes. In the back of the RV, there is a small bathroom with a shower.

We drive all over the United States. We don't like cold weather. When it is cold, we drive south to states like Florida, Texas, or Arizona. When it is hot, we drive north to states like Michigan, Vermont, or Maine. We drive about 20,000 miles each year. We stop and visit many different places. At night, we stay in RV parks. Sometimes we stay for a week. Sometimes we stay for a month. We have a lot of friends in these parks. We sit, talk, and cook outside.

It is easy to visit family with an RV. We have three children, and we visit them two or three times a year. I have two sisters, and my wife has a brother. We visit them every year, too.

Everybody's Talking

On the street, people are walking and talking on their cellphones. In cars, people are driving and talking. In offices, people are working and talking on the phone.

Japan was the first country in the world with cellphones. Now, there are more cellphones than people in the world. China has more cellphones than any other country.

Some people have two cellphones. One is their personal phone; the other is for work. People use their cellphones for many things. They play games, listen to music, take photographs, and use the internet. In many different countries, people are using their cellphones to learn English.

Some teachers are not happy about cellphones. Students' cellphones sometimes ring when they are teaching, and some students text each other during class. In many schools, students must turn off their cellphones before class, but in some schools, students are not allowed to bring their cellphones into the building.
