LOOK!

The verbs treat and cure have a similar meaning as both of them refer to medical care and treatment of diseases. We use treat to say that sb is receiving medical care for a disease, but we don't know whether they'll be cured and be healthy again. On the other hand, we use cure to say that sb has been treated and is well. .

→ The hospital has treated 40 cases of the disease in the last month.

→ She was now completely cured of her disease.
